2003 | 19.22 m | FOR SALE

OVERVIEW

This 2003 Azimut 62 Fly represents a particularly refined unit, combining Italian elegance, generous volumes and significant maintenance attention. The vessel presents itself today in a remarkable overall condition, with serious preparation allowing immediate use without any works required.

With its 19.22 metres, this model offers a configuration particularly appreciated for cruising in the Mediterranean. Its spacious flybridge, its large outdoor areas and the quality of circulation onboard allow one to fully enjoy life at sea, whether during coastal navigations or extended stays at anchor.

The rear cockpit, convivial and well protected, communicates naturally with the interior spaces while the forward sun lounging areas and the various relaxation zones reinforce the sensation of comfort onboard. The flybridge offers a genuine additional reception space, ideal for enjoying navigation or entertaining guests in an open and luminous environment.

The interior retains all the character of the Azimut vessels of this generation, with warm woodwork, a comfortable saloon, a functional galley and an elegant atmosphere faithful to the Italian shipyard's expertise. The layout comprises three beautiful cabins accompanied by three bathrooms, offering an excellent level of comfort for both owners and guests.

The propulsion is based on two MTU engines of 916 hp, a configuration recognised for its performance, its flexibility of use and its ease of navigation on this model.

The yacht benefits moreover from numerous recent equipment and improvements, testifying to constant and thoughtful maintenance:
